Police Arrest Ciato, Head Of Drug Peddlers

Fairfield County Covered With Illicit Narcotics -Second Arrest in Two Days-Another Expected Shortly-Ciato Held By City Court in Bonds of $3,000—Dinegress Case is Continued.

With the arrest late yesterday of Frank Ciato of 70 Clarence street, the police believe they have caught one of the leaders of a gang of drug peddlers that have covered Fairfield County with illicit narcotics. Ciato's arrest was the second in two days, and the fifth in five months for connection with the distribution of cocaine and morphine in this section. One other arrest is expected shortly.

arrest is expected shortly.

Since the municipal drug clinic in the Welfare Building was discontinued several months ago, local traffic in drugs has increased correspondingly. While the number of addicts in the city is confined largely to the poorer classes, the insatiable craving for the soothing effects of the deadly powders made these men and women easy prey for peddlers and "runners" who immediately infested the city.

ners" who immediately intested the city.

It is the belief of the police that a gang with headquarters here, and of which Ciato was one of the guiding spirits; controlled the drug traffic throughout Fairfield county. Three sellers and two runners, including one woman, are now in custody awaiting trial at the September term of the Criminal Superior court which opens September 9.

Criminal Superior court which openses beptember 9.

The vigorous drive of Dr. Carlton Siemon, head of the narcotic squad of the New York police, against men implicated in the drug traffic in New York has caused a heavy influx of sellers and distributors and "runners" into nearby cities, especially in New

Coroner Phelan Back In Office

A hearing of length that was anticipated before Judge Banks this morning in the matter of a dispute between the Norwalk Board of Education, and the city government, including the Board of Apportionment, developed into a short session, when a motion was filed to quash mandamus proceedings.

The dispute reaching the court was ffices at the County court house for the first time to-day, following an exa motion was filed to quash mandamus proceedings.

The dispute reaching the court was caused by the Norwalk Board of Education interpreting recent legislation to mean that all that body had to do was to make an annual budget, and that the Board of Apportionment was compelled to include the entire amount without power of cutting, or without a voice in the matter.

It is understood that Mayor Donorum and others of the city officials thought the idea a dangerous one, and not within the meaning of the law. At any rate a considerable amount was sliced from the school budget, which started the ball rolling, with the result that the mandamus proceedings were brought to compel the Board of Apportionment to include the entire amount.

Case Of World

War Veteran

Is Continued

United States Commissioner Hugh
S. Lavery this morning continued the case of Stanley D. Burchard of $29
Washington avenue for one week. Burchard, who is vice commander of the local post of the World War Veterans, was arrested last night by government agents. He was specifically charged with wearing his unitation of New York, who lived in the shadow of death in Russian prisons for more than a year and a half, and who came out of Russia last week with five other liberated Americans, arrived to-day from Reval with a story of adventure more wonderful than fiction.

Kalamatiano told of lonely night vigils in his death cell listening to the crackling rifles or firing squads outside his cell, of how men died bravely facing their executioners, of living facing their executioners, of living for half a pound of bread daily, never knowing when it would be his turn to fall before the Red rifle men.

The International News Service correspondent rode down from Reval in the same train compartment with the American citizen Thursday. Kalamatiano who is a graduate of the class of erans, was arrested last night by government agents. He was specifically charged with wearing his uniform for more than 20 days after his discharge from the army. Bonds of $200 were furnished by Burchard. While wearing the uniform. Burchard is said to have been selling copies of a pamphlet written by himself, enlisting among his selling arguments sympathy for himself as an alleged wounded war yeteran.

Detectives Search City For Miscreant Who Assaulted Woman

Detectives have been scouring the city since Wednesday night in search of a man who brutally assaulted a young woman near the Young Woman's Christian Association's home on Golden Hill street, it became known today. While the police would give no particulars of the case, it is understood they have well founded suspicions as to the identity of the man. The young woman was badly bruised as the result of her encounter with the marauder, and suffered keenly from the shock. She was removed to her home where she has been confined since, it is reported. According to the story of the affair, the young woman was mounting the public stairway from Elm to Golden Hill street near the Y. W. C. A. home about $130 o'clock Wednesday night. den Hill street near the Y. W. C. A. home about 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night. Low overhanging clouds made the night unusually dark for the hour, and the young woman saw no one until a man leapt from the bushes that border the stairway.

The suddenness of his attack forced her about back against the fence railing while he placed one hand over her mouth to prevent an outcry.

Almost stricken dumb with fear, the young woman was in an extremely precarious plight when unexpected assistance reached her in the form of a woman who lived in the vicinity and who had witnessed the assault from her front porch.

Discovering the approach of the other woman, the assailant released the girl, sprang over the fence and sped down the hill in the direction of Broad and Elm streets.

The young woman fainted, and was removed to a nearby house where she was revived and later taken home.

The police, while refusing to discuss the case, are directing every effort towards capturing the assailant.

If the government guarantees had been continued, Mr. Dunn said, the rental by the government for ten months would have been $742,500,000. In these same ten months the roads actually earned a net operating income of $566,800,000, which was $375,700,000 less than the rental the government would have to pay.

If government operation had continued and the rates not been raised, there would have been a deficit of $1,150,000,000 to meet the increased taxes he said.

The board of arbitration on the trolley wage question is in session today at New Haven, and information given to the press at noon today is to the effect that a decision is expected to be reached late this afternoon. From the time the matter of a wage cut was first mentioned, at the time of the old agreement expiring in June 1 last, the men have mostly been in a receptive mood, as far as taking a slight cut was concerned, realizing that many other workers have had the same experience, but many of them have failed to see why with coal, wages and other expenses a less than they were during the war why the fares should not come down accordingly, and many of the company have at several times within the past few week mentioned fare reductions, but at present are blocked by one dissenting director, who can not see the benefit to the company in the same light as it is apparently seen by Bridgeport officials and the riding public.

George, Commons Will Be Called Into Session, But Government Reserves the Right to Take Any Emergency Measures-Feel Situation Very Grave, But That Reason Will Prevail.

Tells Commons

London, Aug. 19-England's peace offer to Ireland, which Eamonn De Valera has announced that the Sinn Fein will reject, is the government's final word and no further concessions will be made, except in the way of re-arranging details, Premier Lloyd-George told the House of Commons today in moving ad-"In the event of rejection," said the premier, "the House of Commons will be summoned into session, but the government reserves the right to take any emergency measures.

"In case of rejection, we will be faced with a graver situation, than any which confronted us before. In spite of disquieting statements, I hope that reason will prevail and the (Irish) leaders will not reject the largest measure of freedom that has ever been offered (to Ireland) or take the responsibility for renewing a conflict, which will be robbed of all glory by its evershadowing power.

"Instead of keeping something in hand to be used later, the government decided to lay all its cards on the fable. We have done so. And we have not heard any suggestion from any quarter of the world that the proposals had not gone to the limits of all possible concessions.

"We have forwarded everything we possibily could in order to purchase

State Police Search For Six Bandits

Bethel, Conn., Aug. 19.—The state police are searching for six young bandits who visited the farm house of Morris Wentraub, in Palestine, between this place and Newtown, late yesterday afternoon, held Mrs. Weintraub a prisoner, and ransacked the house in search of valuables. The men arrived at the farm in an automobile from which the markers had been removed. They were all stransers in the locality.

After their demand for money was refused by Mrs. Weintraub, who was alone in the house, they ordered her to remain in her chair, with threat that force would be used if she attempted to reach a telephone close by. After a leisurely search of the house and finding only a small amount of money, the men filled their car with produce from the garden and drove away in the direction of Bridgeport.
